Geneva Talks

the Geneva arms talks recessed without progress on the limitation of nucleaar weapons, Reagan Administration official said.

The failure to make headway suggested that the meeting in November between Reagan and Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the Soviet leader, had not lent impetus to the talks.

The latest rounds begain in mid-January amid hopes that advances might be made on medium range missiles.

The hopes were based , in part, on the joint statement at the summit meeting stressing the possibility of an interim accord on medium-range arms.

An American official described the tallks as "relatively disapointing." Another said, "As far as this round is concered, there were no runs, no hits, and no errors.

Viktor P. Karpov, the Soviet negotiator, said,"We hope maybe next time there will be more progress than this time.

The negotiations deal with three sets of issues: intercontinental weapons, medium range systems, and defensive and space arms.

American officials said there had been no movement on intercontinental weapons or on defensive and space arms.

The Soviet Union has also kept to its position that purposeful research that could lead to the development of space based defense systems should be banned, officials said. The United States position is that this would set more restrictive limits on research thatn the 1972 ABM treaty and that the Soviet proposal is unaccetable.

The prevailing view within the Administration is that the medium-range missiles still offer the greatest prospect for progress. The United States has proposed that United States and Soviet medium-range missiles be eliminated over a three-year period.

Maynard W. Glitman, the American negotiator on medium-range weapons, said at a seminar on Munich on Sunday that an earlier American proposal to limit each side to 140 medium-range missile launchers that are within striking range of Europe was also on the negotiating table. Officials said there were a number of problems to be resolved.

The Soviet Union has accepted the principle that Soviet SS-20 missiles in Asia and Soviet short-range missile in Europe be covered by an accord. But the Soviet Union has taken the position that such limits should be worked out after an agreement on medium-range missiles. The United States wants these systems covered by any agreement that deals with medium-range missiles.

Another issue involves British and French missiles.

Mr. Gorbachev's three-stage plan of Jan. 15, calling for the elimination of nuclear weapons by the year 2000, dropped an earlier demand that the Soviet Union be allowed to match the combined number of British, French and American medium-range missiles.

But Mr. Gorbachev insisted that the British and French agree not to increase their missile arsenal and that the United States agree not to transfer missiles to other nations, a stipulation that would block the United States from selling Trident missiles to Britian.

Britain, France and the United States have rejected the proposal. The United States says the Soviet Union has 441 SS-20 missiles. The United States has deployed slightly more than 140 medium-range system in Western Europe.

Marcos

The House or Representatives voted last Thursday to cite the Bernstein brothers for contempt for not answering questions about their relationships or business dealings with Mr. Marcos and his wife, Imelda. The vote on Ralpoh Bernstein was 352 to 34, and the vote on Joesph Bernstein was 343 to 50.

In another matter, there were unconfirmed reports that some justices on the Philippine Supreme Court had resigned, as President Corazon C. Aquino has demanded. But Mrs. Aquino's close advisers said they had not had word that any resignations had been tendered, although they said such a move might come soon.

All 13 justices were appointed by Mr. Marcos, and Mrs. Aquino wants to clear them away for a new court.

Jovito R. Salonga, who heads a commission charged with recovering what is known as Mr. Marcos's "hidden wealth," both here and abroad, said at a news conference that "we have enough documents to prove our case in the courts of New York."

"Those documents exist," he said, "and those documents link the cronies and business associates with the acquisition of property for, and in the name of, Mr. Marcos. Those documents will be in due time produced in courts of justice, specifically before the New York court."

American intelligence estimates of the wealth of Mr. and Mrs. Marcos range from $2 billion to $3 billion, according to Congressional and intelligence sources.

Words Of Wisdom

WHO HATH BELIEVED OUR REPORT? AND TO WHOM IS THE ARM OF THE LORD REVEALED?

FOR HE SHALL GROW UP BEFORE HIM AS A ROOT OUT OF THE GROUND.

HE HATH NO FORM OR COMILINESS: AND WHEN WE SHALL SEE HIM, THERE IS NO BEAUTY THAT WE SHOULD DESIRE HIM.

ISAIAH 66

THUS saith the Lord, The heaven is my throne, and the earth is my footstool: where is the house that ye build unto me? and where is the place of my rest?

For all those things hath mine hand made, and all those things have been, saith the Lord: but to this man will I look, even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and trembleth at my word.

He that killeth an ox is as if he slew a man; he that sacrificeth a lamb, as if he cut off a dog's neck; he that offereth an oblation, as if he offered swine's blood; he that burneth incense, as if he blessed an idol. Yea, they have chosen their own ways, and their soul delighteth in their abominations.

I also will choose and will bring their fears upon them; because when I called, none did answer; when I spake, they did not hear: but they did evil before mine eyes, and chose that in which I delighted not.

Hear the word of the Lord, ye that tremble at hid word; Your brethren that hated you, that cast you out for my name's sake, saith, Let the Lord be glorified: that we may see your joy; but it is they who shall be put to shame.

A voice of noise from the city, a voice from the temple, a voice of the Lord that rendereth recompence to his enemies.

Before she travailed, she brought forth; before her pain came, she was delivered of a man child.

Who hath heard such a thing? who hath seen such things? Shall the earth be made to bring forth in one day? or shall a nation be born at once? for as soon as Zion travailed, she brought forth her children.

Shall I bring to the birth, and not cause to bring forth? saith the Lord: shall I cause to bring forth, and shut the womb? saith thy God.

Rejoice ye with Jerusalem, and be glad with her, all ye that love her: rejoice for joy with her, all ye that mourn for her:

That ye may suck, and be satisfied with the breasts of her consolations; that ye may drink deeply with delight from the abundance of her glory.

For thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will extend peace to her like a river, and the glory of the Gentiles like a flowing stream: then shall ye suck, ye shall be borne pon her sides, and be dandled upon her knees.

As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you; and ye shall be comforted in Jerusalem.

And when ye see this, your heart shall rejoice, and your bones shall flourish like an herb: and the hand of the Lord shall be known toward his servants, and his indignation toward his enemies.

For, behold, the Lord will come with fire, and with his chariots like a whirlwind, to render his anger with fury, and his rebuke with flames of fire.

For by fire and by his sword will the Lord plead with all flesh: and the slain of the Lord shall be many.

They that sanctify themselves, and purify themselves in the gardens behind one free in the midst, eating swine's flesh, and the abomination, and the mouse, shall be consumed together, saith the Lord.

For I know their works and their thoughts: if shall come, that I will gather all nations and tongues; and they shall come and see my glory.

And I will set a sign among them, and I will send those that escape of them unto the nations, to Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, that draw the bow, to Tubal, and Javan, to the isles afar off, that have not heard my fame, neither have seen my glory; and they shall declare my glory among the Gentiles.

And they shall bring up your brethren for an offering unto the Lord out of all nations upon horses, and in chariots, and in litters, and upon mules, and upon swift beasts, to my holy mountain Jerusalem, saith the Lord, as the children of Israel bring an offering in a clean vessel into the house of the Lord.

And I will also take of them for priests and for Levites, saith the Lord.

For as the new heavens and the new earth, which I will make, shall remain before me, saith the Lord, so shall your seed and your name remain.

And it shall come to pass, that from one new moon to another, and from one sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the Lord.

Apostle Bishop D.L. Brooks, D.D.W.

KIRO Sponsors Children's Health Fair

Do your children think good health is fun? Maybe not. They might think it's just a lot of hard work, or even scary. KIRO, Inc. and Valley Medical Center of Renton want to change that.

KIRO Television, KIRO Newsradio 71 and KSEA 101 FM are combining efforts with Valley Medical Center to sponsor a Children's Health Fair on Saturday, March 8 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Medical Center.

The event is designed to teach children that a trip to the hospital doesn't need to be a scary experience,, and to show them that good health can be fun. Interesting features will be instore for the kids, including appearances by KIRO personalities and the Kent Police Department's "P.D. Panda." Children will also have fun dressing up as doctors and nurses, fishing in a pond for prizes and taking part in nutritional food games.

In addition, the Children's Health Fair will offer check-ups for infants, provide information about car seat safety, and present a puppet show on diabetes. Children are encouraged to bring their dolls and teddy bears for "check-ups" by the staff at Valley Medical Center. Kent police officers will be on hand for identification fingerprinting. Hospital tours will be given, and children will receive growth-rate charts.

The Children's Health Fair will be on the second floor lobby of Valley Medical Center, just off Highway 167, on the corner of Talbot and South 43rd street. The fair is free.

Group Seeks Public Vote On Election Equipment

Members of a newly formed organization, COMMITTEE AGAINST GUINEA-PIG ELECTIONS, (C.A.G.E.), announced they have filed a referendum proposal with the offices of Pierce County Auditor against ordinance # 85-200, which was passed February 18, by the County Council, and would authorize the purchase of an unproven voting system, Sequoia Pacific AVC II.

According to a spokeswoman for the group, Eleanora Ballasiotes, the referendum was filed within the 15-day filing limitation period of the original enactment date of February 18, even though it is the group's belief that when County Executive Joe Stortini vetoed the ordinance February 24, the ordinance died.

The group also believes that, only if, and when the Council resurrects the ordinance with a vote to override the Executive's veto, would a referendum on Ordinance # 85-200 be in order. Then, a new 15-day filing period should commence from the date of the council's override vote. Such a vote could come, however, as late as March 27, or 30 days after the veto date of February 24.

Had C.A.G.E. allowed the original 15-day filing period (ending March 5) to pass without filing a referendum, there was a great risk of loosing entirely, the opportunity to file at a later date. The voters might also have lost their only assurance of casting legal and binding votes on this issue.

THE DOCTORS PRESCRIPTION

Birthday Of The Church

Who belongs to the Church? Paul made plain that the Church is made up of all who are the saints of God-all Christians, whether they be Jews or Gentiles; whether their skin happens to be white or red, or yellow or black; regardless of the denomination to which they belong. If they are Christians, they are no longer strangers but "fellow citizens with the saints of God," and they compose the Church.

Who are the Christians? Christians are the people who are gathered around the foot of the Cross on which our Savior died and who, as humble and penitent sinners, look up to that Savior and accept him as their very own.

How does one become a Christian? This is a task for the third person of the Holy Trinity, the enlightening agent of God who, through the simple story of the Gospel, opens eyes and convicts people so that they become aware of their sin and with joy and faith embrace Jesus as their Lord and Redeemer.

What are the implications of being a Christian? To be a Christian calls for a certain way of living. It requires that the presence of the Spirit of God be manifested in your life. This should reveal itself in your character, your behavior, your attitude toward God, toward your fellow man, and toward the moral issues of the day.

Special Service In Remembrance Of Archbishop Romero

The life of Archbishop Oscar Romero of El Salvador will be celebrated at a special service on Sunday, March 16, at 3:00 p.m. at Mason United Methodist Church, 2710 N. Madison, Tacoma/

Archbishop Romero brought hope to the lives of the people of El Salvador when he denounced the violent and bloody repression of the poor by the oligarchy controlled government and military. His understanding that a lasting peace in Central America will be based on social justice and freedom from repression compelled him to speak out on behalf of the oppressed. On March 24, 1980, Archbishop romero was assasinated by government forces which had repeatedly threatened his life.

Special music, litanies and prayers will be included in the service, under the leadership of several local clergy and those involved in the sanctuary movement.

The service is sponsored by Associated Ministries in cooperation with the Pierce County Central America Network, st. Leo's Parish and Mason United Methodist Church.

This service marks the beginning of Central America Week, March 16-24, 1986, a week of worship, study and action in support of justice and peace in Central America.

BEST NEW LOOKS For All Hair Types

Today's woman on the go should have a hairdo that keeps pace with her hectic lifestyle. Here are four fabulous styles to choose from.

What works best for the career woman is hair that's simple with a certain looseness of line and shape plus a hint of curl or wave. This is the perfect style for the woman on the go who only wants to shampoo her hair and be ready to go out the door in a few minutes. The secret to this 'do is, of course, in the curly perm which is so easy to take care of. After shampooing, you can let your hair dry naturally, or use a lamp to do the drying for you. Use an Afro pick to lift hair or scrunch into shape with your fingers. Hair by Armetta Jones. Fashion coordination by Antoinette Salgado.

The soft, fluffy bangs of this seductive style will bring out the best of you. To get that full, voluminous look, have your hair permed first for the volume you need to make this style work. Hair was set on medium to large rollers. Mousse was applied to each roller section before winding into place. When dry, remove rollers and run fingers through hair to loosen set. Brush hair out from a side part, coaxing most of the curls over to one side for an asymmetrical feeling. Mist lightly with hair-spray. All makeup by Ralph Wilson. Cosmetics by Xanadu. Sof N' Free Curl Gel One Step by M&M Products.

What do fashion-conscious women like you love this season? The versatility and elegance of super short hair! To give this relaxed bob the extra bounce it needs, try blow drying hair into place with a blower and brush, followed by some quick tricks with a steam styling wand. To get those curls exactly where you want them, hair should be dry or nearly dry before using. When curl is wound, press steam button for one second. Release steam button and hold wand in place for 10 seconds. Unwind and release. Do the same thing for each and every curl. Of course, if you prefer a roller set, use medium size rollers throughout. Saturate each section with setting lotion. When dry, remove rollers and brush hair into lines of the style. Use a small styling brush to bring curls onto the forehead. Or pull curls into place with your fingers. Hair by Armetta Jones. Sof N Free Salon Strength No Lye Conditioning Relaxer by M&M Products.

Put a little glamour in your life with this bewitching bob. A soft, captivating cut is given extra body and bounce by relaxing hair first, and then using a blow dryer and curling iron throughout. Start with freshly shampooed, conditioned hair. Using a comb and blow dryer, dry hair in the lines of the style, making sure to keep the dryer moving at all times. When hair is dry, wind sections on curling iron to form curls. Do this throughout the entire head. Allow curls to cool, and brush hair out completely, as shown. Hair by Evelyn Gamble-Slater. What a perfect look for a night on the town! This shoulder length coif is swept up and away from the face, with a pretty pompadour feeling. To give your hair maximum versatility, try one of the new no lye relaxer kits which you can do at home. It will eliminate that excess curliness which makes your hair difficult to control. Set your hair on large rollers, making sure to wind rollers out from a side part. When dry, remove rollers and brush hair vigorously to remove any roller marks. GALATIANS 5:1-12

Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage.

Behold, I Paul say unto you, that if ye circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing.

For I testify again to every man that is circumcised, that he is a debtor to do the whole law.

Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ye are fallen from grace.

For we through the Spirit wait for the hope of righteousness by faith.

For in Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth any thing, or uncircumcision; but faith which worketh by love.

Ye did run well; who did hinder you that ye should not obey the truth?

This persuasion cometh not of him that calleth you.

A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

I have confidence in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but he that troubleth you shall bear his judgment, whosoever he be.

And I, brethren, if I yet preach circumcision, why do I yet suffer persecution? then is the offence of the cross ceased.

I would they were even cut off which trouble you.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Helpful Hints For Homemakers

If you want to revitalize a faded pair of blue jeans, wash them with a new pair. The blue color will run off the new pair into the wash water and redye the old jeans.

To chop or slice hard-cooked eggs, use your pastry-blender utensil. The job will be done in seconds.

If your candles have sagged out of shape, here's how to straighten them. Place them in hot water for five to six minutes. Then lay them on a smooth level surface and roll them with your hands until they are back to their original shape.

Painting your basement floor will be a lot easier if you apply the paint with a roller which has been fastened securely to a mop handle. You'll be able to stand upright while doing the job.

An unused teapot comes in handy for watering small houseplants. It holds just enough water for a few small plants and the spout is small enough to control the amount of water flow.

When making popcorn balls, dip your hands in cold water before each ball. This will help prevent excessive stickiness.

Would you like to make your feather pillows smell as fresh and be as fluffy as new? Just put them in your dryer with a fabric-softener sheet, and set on air dry for five minutes.

Save aluminum TV dinner trays and keep several next to you while sewing. Their separate compartments are excellent for holding buttons, pins, snaps, and spools of thread.

When pressing slacks, dampen your pressing cloth in white vineger and iron over the creases. This will keep the creases in place until the next washing.

Exhibits By World Famous Hungarian Photography

This exhibition of ninety photographs by the world-famous Hungarian photographer, spanning the years 1914-1984, was organized from the Hallmark Photography Collection and sponsored by Hallmark Cards, Inc. of Kansas City, Missouri. Andre Kertesz, who died on September 27, 1985 is regarded today as one of the greates innovators in the history of photography. Through his use of the small Leica camera, Kertesz is viewed as a ling between the classic, large-format photography of the 19th century, and the candid vision of the 20th century.

The artist was born in Budapest, Hungary, in 1914. At the age of 18 he bought his first camera. Though the norm in 1912 was to shoot formal, posed phtographs with a large view camera, Kertesz took candid photos of every day life instead with a small hand-held camera. After World War I he went to Paris, where his innovative phtographic style gained him wide attention.

He came to New York in 1936 and supported himself by doing commercial work. From 1949-1962 Kertesz worked for the magazine publisher Conde Nast. After relative obscurity in the United States, Kertesz was given a one-person show at the Museum of Modern Art in 1964. Since that time, his reputation has grown to be included among the greates of all photographers.

Dr. Fitzgerald, who teaches classes in art history and the history of photography at Central Washington University will present a free lecture for Museum Members on the life of the noted Hungarian Photographer in conjunction with the exhibition, ANDRE KERTESZ: FORM AND FEELING.

A Daisy to Brighten Your Day

☐Transvaal daisy, gerbera daisy, African daisy—no matter which name is used, you are certain to love this plant's big, colorful blossoms. The flowers, held above the plant on fat, fuzzy stems, may be as large as four inches in diameter. They are available in many colors, from a dazzling snowy white, clear yellow, pale peach, pink or salmon, to the brightest of reds.

A native of South Africa, this daisy may be grown outside as a perennial in warm areas of the country. Protect the plants in the winter with a loose mulch if you have frost. Where the weather gets really cold, the gerbera daisy should be treated as a houseplant.

Plants are available at many greenhouses, or, with patience, you can grow them from seed. Seeds are sold by the larger mail-order seed companies. Plant the seeds very early in the spring, using sterile potting medium and clean containers with drain holes. Cover seeds with about a quarter inch of the medium, then moisten carefully to avoid washing the seeds out of place. Let the excess moisture drain, then slip the container into a clear plastic bag, close, and put it in a warm place. When seedlings appear, remove the bag and put them in a sunny window. Keep the soil moist, but don't overdo it or the seedlings will die. Fertilize with soluble houseplant fertilizer at half strength.

Transplant your daisies to individual pots when the plants are large enough to handle easily. Use three-inch pots, shifting to five-inch pots as the plants mature. Commercial potting soil or a mixture of equal parts sand, soil, and peat may be used. Water well, then let the soil become nearly dry before watering again. Gerbera daisies are not tolerant of overwatering—too little is better than too much. Fertilize once a month at full strength.

Gerberas will bloom year round when grown indoors, and seem especially bright and cheerful during the winter months. When summer comes, your daisies may be moved outside, but they must be placed in a sheltered spot where they'll be protected from the wind. Wind damage will cause them to sulk and refuse to produce their brilliant flowers. Outside, they should be in light shade, or somewhere they will receive the morning sun. Bring them inside in the fall when nighttime temperatures begin to dip into the forties.

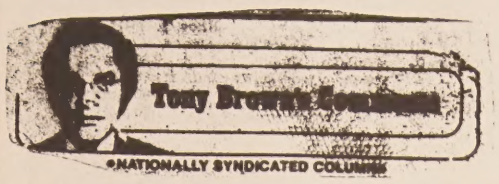
EDITORIALS, VIEWS COMMENTS



NAACP At The Crossroads

Benjamin Hooks successfully turned away criticism of past NAACP staff members that he had led the organization into a financial quagmire by producing evidence of a $500,000 surplus, the first in two years, and a membership report by the very respected C. Delores Tucker verified that the NAACP's membership is 450,000 and not 150,000 as some dissidents claimed.

Michael Meyers, a Negro who allows himself to be identified as the NAACP's past assistant executive director, a title that has never existed, repeatedly interrupted the recent NAACP meeting asking for financial accountings and membership verification. He finally called for Hooks' resignation.

This is the same former NAACP research assistant who, while at the NAACP, made public speeches attacking Black colleges and claimed that no Black college would ever be equal to a White one. His very behavior as a NAACP official is responsible for giving many potential members a bad taste for the group. Now he reverses the roles and plays the accuser of Hooks.

The NAACP is going through a painful period of re-thinking its agenda and re-evaluating its resources. And it is constructive, critical thinking that will revitalize it. "The NAACP is not all that it ought to be and it's not all that it is going to be, but thank God it's not what it used to be," Benjamin Hooks said.

Of course, the NAACP's executive director was borrowing from an old adage, but his answer to his critics was masterful and thorough. Thorough, because Hooks realizes that the 50s are a matter of record as is segregation by law and institutional discrimination by birthright. Some Blacks still, however, point to every new racist infraction to prove that nothing has changed.

First, racism will never die. As long as there are human beings, there will be racists. And racists, Black and White, are fools. Moreover, if you are waiting for the last White racist to die to enjoy freedom, you'll never see it in this lifetime. Secondly, there are ample laws to safeguard civil rights, thanks largely to the NAACP.

Ben Hooks has attracted one wing of his critics because they want him to allocate his scarce resources to re-fight old battles--like busing. Some former lawyers of the NAACP, one now a federal judge, helped create the organization's current financial problems.

After the historic Brown case was won, they allocated too much of the NAACP's limited resources to busing cases to place Black children with White children in schools, not because it resulted in a better education, but because, they think, being near Whites will make Blacks better people.

They shunned efforts to educate Black children, instead they sought ways to shift the responsibility to White society via legal means. It failed. Whites ran from Black students and yellow buses and are still running.

As a result, the youth were squeezed out of the learning process by both Black and White flight. The result: a generation of Black children who read at a level below their grandparents. And many of Hooks' critics are responsible for it. It is they who should be criticized.

Desegregation is a legitimate objective of the Black community.

But the fight to provide access to any and all institutions and to eliminate dehumanizing segregation gradually was turned into a battle for integration, meaning coercive attempts to legally deny any worth in African-American people or culture. As a result, many Blacks abandoned the NAACP.

No movement will ever be successful among Blacks unless it first makes them feel good about being Black. And no current program in this post-segregation era that is not economic in its orientation will succeed.

Blacks have experienced desegregation. They know there is no magic in going to college with Whites or working next to Whites or trying on clothes in a White store or living next door to Whites. The successes of the civil rights movement have made this race-free attitude possible. But these same successes of desegration failed to provide Blacks with the wherewithal to enjoy them.

As the NAACP confronts the disaster of family disintegration and over 50 percent of Black babies born to babies in fatherless homes, it will discover that the rise in fatherless homes has moved in tandem with Black male unemployment. Family disintegration, although partly caused by a lapse in values, is largely an economic phenomenon.

Jobs -- and only jobs -- will stabilize Black families and create a first-class Black America. If we try to solve this problem the way some Blacks tried to solve our education problem, by shifting the blame and responsibility to Whites, we will fail to save our community.

In short, to succeed the NAACP must become a self-help organization and promote self-reliance. It must encourage Blacks to spend their money with Black businesses and White friends to create jobs necessary to reduce female-headed homes and to build a community of families.

It must awaken race pride and teach Blackness, its beauty, its universal application; explain that pro-Blackness cannot be anti-Whiteness; and thank God for blessing us with African blood.

Ben Hooks must do what Black people want and need and not the various political pockets and self-interest groups in his organization. If he does, he will silence his critics with an effective program. If he does not, they will destroy him and the NAACP.

Pierce County Will Not Purchase Excess Comprehensive Liability Insurance

Pierce County Executive, Joe Stortini, announced that Pierce County will not purchase excess comprehensive general liability insurance and, therefore, will become totally self-insured for liability losses occurring as of March 1, 1986.

The decision to not purchase the excess insurance was made after careful consideration of the only proposal submitted, which was from the California Union Insurance Company, through the County's Broker of Record, Raleigh, Mann & Powell, Inc. The proposal represented a very substantial rate increase and a long term commitment on the part of Pierce County, state Stortini.

In 1985, Pierce County experienced a 184% rate increase and increased its self-insured retention (deductible) to $500,000. per accurrence, when they paid $490,000. for $20,000,000. per occurrence comprehensive general liability insurance. The latest proposal was unable to match the existing broad coverage conditions and featured the restrictive "claims made" commercial policy form. The proposal required the County to increase the self-insured retention (deductible) to $1,000,000. per occurrence, and the projected premimum for $20,000,000. was in excess of $978,000.

Stortini said Pierce County will continue to fund its Self-Insurance Fund, and further consideration will be given to increasing the reserve Loss Paying Fund in light of the added exposure.

Pierce County will be joining the City of Tacoma and Tacoma School District in paying its own way because insurance premiums have become unreasonable, says Stortini.

Today our insurance reserve fund has $3.1 million on hand. We must prepare for any catastrophic loss by building our reserve fund. I hope to substantially "beef up" the fund over the next few years. At the same time safety programs in each department will continue to be a top priority.

It is interesting to note that in 1983 insurance rates for Pierce County were $90,000. compared to almost $1,000,000. in 1986 and the $90,000. actually gave broader coverage.

The history of insurance rates has been like a roller coaster. Hopefully, the rates will level off in the future and governmental entities, school districts, the medical profession and child day care centers can again obtain reasonable cost coverage.

Agricultural Safety Code To Be Revised

OLYMPIA -- The Department of Labor and Industries plans to revise current safety rules affecting the agriculture industry.

An ad hoc committee is being organized to help the department develop the revisions. The committee will conduct informal meetings to take public comment on proposed changes. Beginning in April, meetings will be scheduled in Vancouver, Wenatchee, Yakima, the Tri Cities, Spokane, Moses Lake, Seattle and Ferndale. Dates and locations will be announced later.

The committee will discuss comments taken at the public meetings and make recommendations on a final proposal to the department. The assistant director for the Division of Industrial Safety and Health, Dave Hutchins, says a formal public hearing will be held before any revisions to the standard are adopted later this year.

The agricultural standard, Chapter 296-306 of the WAC, is being reviewed in response to a federal directive requiring states to develop and implement sanitation rules for fields and farms. Also, the Legislature requires Labor and Industries to review all safety codes regularly. The last revision of the agriculture code was in 1979.

For further program information contact Ray Wax, Department of Labor and Industries, Division of Industrial Safety and Health, 814 E. Fourth Ave., Olympia, WA 98504. Telephone (206)753-6381.

Swift Appoints Community Representative

(WASHINGTON, D.C.) - Congressman Al Swift has announced the appointment of Jill Overstreet as Community Representative in his Everett district office. Swift's Everett office director, Liz McLaughlin, was named yesterday to a vacant position on the Snohomish County Council and will be assuming those duties next week.

Overstreet was born and raised in Everett and attended Washington State University where she majored in Political Science and Communications.

The Everett office serves Snohomish, Island, Mason, Grays Harbor and King Counties. The staff helps individuals cut through federal red tape and assists local communities and businesses with projects and federal legislation.

Booth Gardner Upset By Tactics Used By Special Interests Groups

OLYMPIA - Gov. Booth Gardner today denounced some tactics being used by special interests opposing his government reorganization package.

"I'm deeply disappointed at some of the tactics of the opposition. They are using distortions and, in some cases, out-right lies to try to stop this needed reorganization of government," the governor said.

As an example, Gardner cited the newsletter "Wildlife Call" published by Washington State Sportsmen's Council. The newsletter says: "Governor Gardner is taking the first step to completely eliminate the Department of Game and the Game Commission as it now exists."

Nothing could be further from the truth," Gardner said. "I have no intention of abolishing the Game Commission or the Department of Game."

Gardner is proposing that the governor be given responsibility for the administration of the department and that the Game Commission be retained to form Game policy. The legislation would also give the governor similar authority over the Department of Transportation and the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Most of the opposition to the bill has concerned the Game Department.

"The result of this legislation would be added emphasis on the efficient management of the Game Department because the department will have both the governor and the Game Commission as advocates when working with the Legislature. That will put the department in an even stronger position than it is today," Gardner said.

The Governor expressed confidence that the Legislature would approve his proposals and said it will be one of the finest moments for this Legislature.

"I have every hope that legislators will rise above the camouflage and misrepresentations of the special interests and take responsible action for more efficient and accountable government," Gardner said.

An Open Letter To The Hilltop Community

When I was a child, there was a song sang in the Baptist church. Quite often I can't remember the words, but the title was "I Went To A Meeting Last Night". To the singer everything good happened after leaving the meeting. If you ever heard it, you know what I'm trying to say.

Well! I went to a meeting last night, but it wasn't the same. I came away mad as hell. It seems that the good City Fathers has appropriated some Thirty-Five Thousand dollars to help make all the bad little Black male and female teenagers in the Hilltop Community little ebony angels? How do they propose to do that? Easy, man, easy! They send in six middle class Whites who are all fired to change the image of K Street with this enormous amount of money. Thirty-Five Thousand Dollars. Just think of it! They are going to spend it all so these good-bad little Black teenagers can do what they like doing. And just you imagine what the little potential little Black angels said they like to do: Rap, man, Rap. Have talent shows and dances, now ain't dat nice? No more hanging around the 7-11. They are going to stop stealing my batteries, stop breaking into Black businesses and that's a blessing. They've hit em all at one time or another.

For a measly Thirty-Five Thousand dollars, the City Fathers are supposed to be giving us a salve to heal the wounds of unemployment and the negligence and seeming unconcern of the police in the Hilltop area. From the Park District comes a benevolent White female up from oregon or someplace who thinks she can cure all the Hilltop ills by rapping with a few little Black hoodlums and in affect saying to them nobody loves you. I do, don't you see, I'll help you to get a place to rap and help you hold a talent show. Will she help one to get a job with the Park District?

Does she know about the many little old Black ladies-widows in Hilltop go to bed fearful each night because the house across the street was broken in last night and the one next door last week? The perpetrators were seen by some of the neighbors-you guessed it. They won't tell, they are afraid, also they are held hostage be these nice little hoodlums.

Since the Thirty-Five Thousand dollars was aimed at black youth, why wasn't input from the N.A.A.C.P. asked for, the views of the Black electives, the Black churches, a word from Tom Dixon would have been nice, even a Black preacher or two I thought, but I guess I don't know nutten. White middle class folks know more about our little ghetto angels than Carl Brown, Tom Dixon, Reverend Boles or do they? Well, I don't have no tuck with that man they call Farrahan, but like him, I say we better stop letting others take over our community.

Understanding The New Choices In Mutual Funds

The advantage to the investor is that when you put $1,000 into a 12b-1 fund, the full $1,000 is invested, unlike a front-end-load fund in which the commission is deducted first, leaving less working for you. However, 12b-1s charge a "declining deferred sales charge" (also called a back-end load) if you sell your shares within a certain number of years. For example, with Shearson Lehman Brothers' three new 12b-1 Special Equity Portfolios, you may pay a charge of 5% if you sell in the first year. The charge is reduced to 4% in the second year and so on down to zero in the sixth and subsequent years. The exit charge does not apply to market appreciation, reinvested dividends and distributions.

These redemption fees are often waived for withdrawals from IRAs and Keoghs or switches from one 12b-1 fund to another within the same family of funds.

It's difficult to make direct comparisons of total charges between 12b-1s, load funds and low-loads. Aside from the different front-end, back-end and distribution fees charged by various funds, much depends on how long you hold a fund

Questions Answered Daily By VA Counselors

Q--When the New Improved Pension was first enacted I was advised that it was not to my advantage to switch. Is it possible that it might be to my advantage now?

A--It may be. The income limits have increased steadily and are tied to social security increases. You should check with your nearest VA regional office.

Q-- If a person who is eligible for Survivors and Dependents Education Assistance Benefits marries, how is eligibility affected?

A-- The marriage of an eligible child will be no barrier. The remarriage of a surviving spouse will terminate entitlement. If the remarriage is ended by death or divorce, eligibility may be restored.

Q-- What rating must a service-connected disabled veteran have in order to claim additional compensation for a wife, child or parent?

A-- You must be rated 30 percent or more.

and how much you invest. That's because many load funds scale down their commissions as the amount invested increases. But a good basic source to check is Wiesenberger Investment Companies Service, which most big-city public libaries have.

Although it's important to understand the cost of investing in any mutual fund, it's equally important to remember why your're investing -- to increase your capital or your income or both. How well a fund performs, year after year, is the main criterion on which you should base your investment decision.

But with over 1,000 mutual funds available today, few individuals can adequately research fund performance and select funds. This is the key reason why it's smart to buy mutual funds through a brokerage firm, rather than on your own. An experienced Financial Consultant can help ou find funds that perform well in both up and down markets- and fit your investment objectives.

For many years choosing among mutual funds was relatively simple, because there were just two broad categories of funds: loads and no-loads. Load funds carried a front-end sales charge of up to 8.5% and were sold chiefly by brokers, who sifted through hundreds of funds to find those that matched the investor's objectives. No-loads carried no sales charge but had to be sought out by investors themselves and purchased by mail. (All funds, however, even no-loads, have always charged a basic administration and management fee, which generally run .5% to 1% of average assets.)

Then a few years ago, the mutual fund scene became more complicated, as distinctions between load and no-load funds blurred. Many load funds began charging a maximum of 4%-5%, while many no-loads became what are now called "low-loads" by charging a 1%-3% sales commission up front, even though they were not sold by brokers. The gap narrowed still further when some low-loads started charging investors a 1% fee to redeem their shares.

Recently, another new category of funds has emerged. These have the rather obscure name, "12b-1 funds" and because they are new and something of a hybrid, they have confused some investors. But 12b-1s are quite easy to understand.

A 12b-1 fund pays the distributor an annual distribution fee, which runs between .5% and 1.25% average assets. Such a fee is permited by Securities and Exchange Commission Rule 12b-1 (hence, the funds' name) and is in addition to the basic administration and management fees mentioned earlier. The practical effect of the distribution fee is that shareholders pay for fund sales in increments over the years rather than upfront.

A Reply On The Problems Plaguing The Black Community

A few weeks ago, the media thought it news worthy to make aware to the American population as well as the world, the problems plaguing the Black Community. Many of the statistics were quite shocking and should have served to awaken the Black Community. On the other hand, it could have a negative effect of the White Community, for it certainly painted a negative picture particularly for those whites still trying to formulate their icture of the Black Community. Such "statistics" directed at a certain group of race of people can have negative effects.

There are always those prepared to take statistics and of course those ready to buy or publish them. (We are sometimes made to wonder to what intent, and I'm sure the intent would vary) I certainly hope that the Black Community wll take these "statistics" and do something positive to change them.

These "statistics" can surely make one question the morality of a people, but, as in many cases there are contributing factors. What I'm about to say should be in no means taken by the Black Community as an excuse for irresponsibility, for though these contributing factors do exist there still is no excuse. But is we can change these conributing factors as we change our attitudes and behaviors it would certainly speed up the change. A week later the president, apparently moved by these "statistics", decided to take another look at the social health programs which definitely is a contributing factor, but I'm not sure its in the way the president sees them. Let's look at some of these contributing statistics.

Unemployment statistics shows that the greatest number of unemployed is in the Black Community. Particularly among the young males. They show that 51% of babies in the Black Community is to unwed mothers. Does this mean that more Blacks are engaged in sexual intercourse? Of course not! But rather lesser black males are getting married. For how can they afford marriage without a job? It is unfortunate that sex and marriage don't go hand in hand.

Another contributing factor to teenage pregnancies among Blacks is the abortion issue. The increase of pregnancy out of wedlock seems to imply that Blacks are of low morals but the fact of the matter is that Blacks are of such high morals that we don't believe in aborting our unwanted babies but choose rather to suffer the consequences. Yet there are others who would resort to abortion being fearful or financially unable to afford them while other ethnic groups think very little about aborting a baby. Because of this, it appeals that Black youth are more promisceous. Another contributing factor may well be because of the moral conviction of the Black family. We may not have taken full advantage of the planned parenthood program we feel that to teach prevention is to 'okay' the act while other groups have no apprehensions about either.

The major contributor to teenage pregnancies has been the educational system, particularly in the Black Community when the schoold took it upon themselves to take from the family and the church the morality of their children and begin to teach what they called sex education,which was no more than a class prompting sex without morality. The results is the increase of teenage pregnancies and veneral diseases among other immoral practices such as shacking, homosexuality and lesbianism. We've been made to believe that this new wave of teaching merely brought these things out of the closets but the fact is that such a loose and iresponsible teachings not only gave a feeling that it was 'okay' to do but that it was right.

Another area of education that has contributed to the breakup of the Black family is the new philosophy that the old way of disciplining your children with a paddle is unnecessary an obsolete. Other government and state funded programs supported such teachings by educating our children about an overblown child abuse mentality that children should not be paddled at all. Then armed our children with telephone numbers and addresses that they could call and make charges against their parents if they felt their punishment was unwarrented or too severe.

The schools are not hired to raise our children but to educate them. Our law enforcement officials are not hired to interfere in our family lives but rather to protect us from those who would violate our rights. Our legislators are not elected to create laws that make it impossible for us to raise our own family (or family rights). All of these are going to have to assume some of the responsibility of what is happening to our youth today.

Christian schools are going to turn this trend around. They're going to again establish morality with sexuality, Blacks again may be the victims of circumstance, for with the rate of unemployment they may not be able to send their children to private school.

In the president's speech he stated that the social services needed to be overhaul. This hopefully will do. A lot could be said about the social services programs.

Registration Underway For Adult Classes At Lincoln

Registration is now open for spring adult education classes scheduled to begin March 31 at Lincoln High School.

High school completion classes are scheduled as well as community service classes in basic reading, writing and speaking of the English language, and prepration for the GED (high school equivalency) test.

The registration fee for each class per semester is $15 for persons not attending regular high school during the day. High school students who want to take a class will be chared $55 per class per semester. This charge, according to Bill Stevenson, supervisor, is due to the cutback in reimbursement monies from the state. Stevenson reminds high school seniors that they may attend adult education classes during the spring semester by making arrangements with their school principal.

Registration is being held weekdays between 8:30 - 11:30 a.m. and 1 - 4 p.m. at the Central Administration Building Annex, first floor, (708 South G Street), and evenings between 5 and 8 p.m. at Lincoln High School (701 south 37th), March 17, 19, 31 and April 3. Registration closes April 7.

All classes operate under the direction of the L.H. Bates Vocational-Technical Institute.

Oyster Stew

1 quart whole milk
1 pint whipping cream
1 medium onion, peeled and cut in half
1 pint shucked-out oysters with their liquid (see note)
½ stick unsalted butter (2 ounces) plus 4 pats of butter, optional
Sprinkling of cayenne pepper or rose paprika to taste
Freshly ground white pepper to taste.

1. Place the milk, cream and onion halves in a heavy saucepan and heat very slowly. When the boiling point is reached, turn off the heat and let the onion steep for approximately 30 minutes.

2. Drain the oysters, reserving the liquid. Remove the onion from the milk and discard it. Add about two-thirds of the oyster liquid and reheat mixture until just below boiling.

3. While the milk is reheating, melt the butter in a heavy frying pan over very low heat. It should not brown. Add the drained oysters to the butter. (If oysters are very large, you may wish to chop them roughly before adding.) Cook over very low heat, stirring continuously, until the oyster flesh becomes thoroughly opaque.

4. Add oysters to milk and mix gently. Add cayenne pepper or, if you prefer a milder, sweeter flavor, rose paprika to taste. Set aside to cool. When cool, cover and refrigerate overnight or for several hours. Before serving, heat again to just below boiling point. Add freshly ground white pepper to taste. If you wish, add a pat of butter to each bowl before serving. Serve immediately.

Martha's Vineyard Oyster Pie

(Adapted from "The Martha's Vineyard Cookbook," Globe Pequot Press, 1971)

1 pint shucked oysters
½ to 1 cup rich milk (half milk, half cream) or half-and-half
2 tablespoons plus 1 tablespoon unsalted butter
¼ pound mushrooms, cleaned and sliced
3 tablespoons flour
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Dash of cayenne pepper
Pastry crust (see recipe below)
1 egg mixed with 1 tablespoon milk.

1. Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

2. Drain oysters through a sieve and reserve liquid. Add enough rich milk to the liquid to make 1½ cups.

3. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a heavy frying pan over low heat. Add sliced mushrooms and cook, stirring occasionally, until mushrooms start to brown, approximately 5 minutes. Remove mushrooms and set aside.

4. Add remaining tablespoon of butter to frying pan. When it has melted, add flour and cook over low heat, stirring with a wire whisk, for a minute or two until the flour starts to brown. Add the milk/oyster juices in two batches and continue cooking, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens to the consistency of heavy cream. Add Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice and cayenne pepper. Taste and adjust seasoning if necessary.

5. Remove sauce from heat and fold in mushrooms and oysters. Place oyster mixture in a round oven-proof pie dish — approximately 8 inches in diameter and 1½ inches deep.

6. Roll out pastry to make a crust large enough to fit the pie dish. Top the oyster mixture with the pastry and crimp the edges. Make a few slits in the top and brush dough lightly with the egg-milk mixture.

7. Place pie in preheated oven and bake 10 to 15 minutes, until crust browns. Turn oven heat down to 375 degrees and bake an additional 15 minutes. Remove from oven, let stand at least five minutes. Serve hot, or just above room temperature.

Yield: 4 servings.

Pastry

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup vegetable oil
⅛ cup milk.

1. Resift the flour into a mixing bowl.

2. Combine oil and milk without stirring and add all at once to flour. Mix with a fork until well blended. Form into a ball and place on a sheet of wax paper. (Sprinkle a little water on the counter top to keep paper from sliding.) Place another piece of wax paper on top of the pastry and roll out into a circle large enough to fit the top of the 8-inch pie dish and hang over the edge by half an inch.

3. Remove the top paper. Invert the pastry, using the bottom piece of wax paper, over the pie dish. Carefully peel away wax paper and proceed with recipe above.

Côtelettes d'Agneau Champvallon

(Lamb Riblets With Potatoes and Onions)

2 racks of lamb, about 3½ pounds total weight
6 new, red waxy potatoes, about 1½ pounds
3 medium-size onions, about ½ pound
2 leeks, trimmed, about ½ pound
2 tablespoons butter
Salt to taste if desired
Freshly ground pepper to taste
1 teaspoon finely minced garlic
½ teaspoon dried thyme
1 bay leaf
2 cups fresh or canned chicken broth
½ cup water
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley.

1. Preheat the oven to 450 degrees.

2. Pull off the upper skin and the fat from both racks of lamb. Using a sharp knife, trim off and discard most of the remaining fat.

3. Cut between the ribs. Each rack should yield about eight ribs with the meaty end portion attached.

4. Peel the potatoes, and cut into thin slices. There should be about 4 cups. Cover with cold water and set aside.

5. Peel the onions, and cut them crosswise into quarters. Cut the quarters into very thin slices. There should be about 2 cups.

6. Wash the leeks, taking care to rinse between the leaves. Finely chop them. There should be about 2 cups.

7. Heat the butter in an ovenproof skillet large enough to hold the lamb in one layer. Sprinkle the lamb with salt and pepper, and add the pieces to the skillet. Cook, turning the pieces so that they brown evenly, about 5 minutes. Transfer to a platter.

8. To the fat remaining in the skillet, add the onions and garlic, and cook, stirring, until the onions are wilted.

9. Drain the potatoes, and add to the skillet. Add the leeks, salt and pepper. Add the thyme and bay leaf, and cook, stirring, about 5 minutes.

10. Pour and scrape the potato mixture into a bowl. Discard the bay leaf. Return the lamb pieces to the skillet, and cover with the potato mixture, smoothing it over the top of the lamb. Add the broth and water, and bring to a boil. Cover the skillet closely with foil.

11. Place the skillet in the oven, and bake 20 minutes. Remove the foil, and continue baking 20 minutes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

Yield: 4 servings.

Snow Peas

1 pound snow peas
1 tablespoon butter
⅓ cup finely chopped scallions
½ cup heavy cream
Salt to taste if desired
Freshly ground pepper to taste.

1. Pull off and discard any tough ends of the snow peas. Put enough water to cover the peas in a saucepan, bring to a boil, add the peas, and cover. Cook about 2 minutes and drain.

2. Heat the butter in a saucepan, and add the scallions. Cook briefly, stirring, and add the cream. Cook about 30 seconds, and add the snow peas. Add salt and pepper. Stir to coat the peas with the cream and serve.

Yield: 4 servings.
